MEGAN'S LAW

Megan Nicole Kanka

In 1995, a convicted child molester was arrested for the murder and rape of 7 year-old Megan Kanka in a New Jersey suburb. The offender lived right across the street from the Kanka residence, however the Police Department was prohibited from disclosing the presence of this child molester because at the time the law did not allow the release of sex offender information to the public.

The law was changed to permit the release of this information to the public and on May 8th, 1996, President Clinton signed the law, dubbed "Megan's Law" in remembrance of little Megan Kanka. This law was implemented to allow potential victims to protect themselves and allow parents to protect their children.

On September 10th, 1999, a new law pertaining to the Sex Offender Registry and Community Notification Act became effective in Massachusetts. The new law revamped the old Sex Offender Registry and Community Notification Act and made several significant changes. This software program includes this documentation in detail.
